DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114 was filed in this application after a decision by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences, but before the filing of a Notice of Appeal to the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit or the commencement of a civil action. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114 and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the appeal has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114 and prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/30/10 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, and 9-12 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fujii (JP Pub. No. 11-155998 A).

Regarding claim 1, Fujii discloses a gaming machine comprising:

a variable display device configured to variably display a plurality of symbol rows each having a symbol placement face formed in a curved surface on which a plurality of symbols are placed (fig. 4, items 8a-c, paragraph [0026]);

an image display device being provided in front of and opposed to the variable display device and configured to display the symbols through a flat symbol transmission face and to display an image concerning a game (fig. 4, items 11, 20a-c, paragraph [0024]);

a symbol illumination device configured to illuminate the symbols (fig. 4, item 24, paragraph [0025]); and

an image display assistance device being provided lateral to an area between the variable display device and the image display device to cover an area sandwiched between the symbol placement face and the symbol transmission face, and configured to assist image display of the image display device (fig. 4, items 25, 26 and 27, paragraph(s) [0024]-[0028]).

Regarding claim 2, discloses a gaming machine comprising:

a variable display device configured to variably display a plurality of symbol rows on which a plurality of symbols are placed (fig. 4, items 8a-c, paragraph [0026]);

an image display device being provided in front of the variable display device and configured to display an image concerning a game (fig. 4, items 11, 20a-c, paragraph [0024]);

a symbol illumination device configured to illuminate the symbols (fig. 4, item 24, paragraph [0025]); and

an image display assistance device being provided lateral to an area between the variable display device and the image display device and configured to reflect light emitted from the symbol illumination device and to assist image display of the image display device (fig. 4, items 25, 26 and 27, paragraph(s) [0024]-[0028]).

Regarding claim 4, Fujii discloses wherein the symbol illumination device comprises a front illumination lamp configured to illuminate the symbols from a slanting direction of the front of the symbols, and wherein the image display assistance device reflects light emitted from the front illumination lamp (fig. 10, paragraph [0036]).

Regarding claim 5, Fujii discloses wherein the image display assistance device is attached to a housing that houses the variable display device (fig. 4, item 27).

Regarding claim 7, Fujii discloses wherein the image display assistance device comprises a mirror plate (fig. 4, item 27, paragraph [0028]).

Regarding claim 9, Fujii discloses a gaming machine comprising:
a variable display device configured to variably display a plurality of symbol rows on which a plurality of symbols are placed (fig. 4, items 8a-c, paragraph [0026]);
an image display device being provided in front of the variable display device and configured to display an image concerning a game (fig. 4, items 11, 20a-c, paragraph [0024]);
a side illumination device being provided lateral to an area between the variable display device and the image display device and configured to illuminate the symbols from a side of the symbols (fig. 4, items 24, 25, 26 and 27, paragraph(s) [0024]-[0028]); and a case that houses at least a part of the variable display device (fig. 1, item 2), wherein the side illumination device includes a plate attached to the case and a lighting device provided on the plate (fig. 4, items 22, 24, and 29).

Regarding claim 10, Fujii discloses a gaming machine comprising:

a first display device configured to variably display a plurality of symbols (fig. 4, items 8a-c, paragraph [0026]);
a second display device including a display panel that is provided opposed to and spaced from the first display device, and the second display device configured to display the symbols through the display panel and to display an image concerning a game on the display panel (fig. 4, items 11, 20a-c, paragraph [0024]); and a display assistance device provided lateral to an area between the first display device and the display panel of the second display device and configured to assist image display of the second display device (fig. 4, items 24, 25, 26 and 27, paragraph(s) [0024]-[0028]).

Regarding claim 11, Fujii discloses further comprising an illumination device configured to illuminate the symbols, wherein the display assistance device includes a reflector that reflects light emitted from the illumination device (fig. 4, items 24, 25, 26 and 27, paragraph(s) [0024]-[0028]).

Regarding claim 12, Fujii discloses wherein the display assistance device includes an illumination device that illuminates the area between the first display device and the display panel of the second display device (paragraphs [0025]-[0032], fig. 4, items 22, 24, and 29).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

7. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fujii (JP Pub. No. 11-155998 A) in view of Masahiko (JP Pat. No. 2001353255).

Regarding claim 3, Fujii substantially discloses the invention as claimed but fails to explicitly teach that the symbol illumination device comprises a rear illumination lamp configured to illuminate the symbols from behind the symbols. Instead, Fujii discloses light sources in front of the symbols. However, in an analogous reference, Masahiko discloses placing light sources behind the symbols to enhance the game or show a winning state in an effective way (Abstract). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to modify Fujii with light sources behind the symbols to enhance the game or show a winning state in an effective way.

8. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fujii (JP Pub. No. 11-155998 A).

Regarding claim 6, Fujii substantially discloses the invention as claimed but fails to explicitly teach that the image display assistance device comprises a white plate. Instead, Fujii discloses that the image display assistance device are reflector plates (fig. 4, items 25, 26 and 27) instead of specific white plates. However, one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention would have known that surfaces lighter in color reflect light better than surfaces darker in color (Official Notice). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to use white plates because white reflects light better than most other colors.
